Executive Director
International House at the University of California, Berkeley

Distinguished international residential, educational and cultural center, founded with a gift from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., seeks seasoned, multifaceted Executive Director. Since its inception in 1930, International House has had only 3 executive directors. The increasingly important mission of International House is to foster interaction, fellowship and understanding among U.S. and overseas students and scholars, to promote tolerance and a more peaceful world. We seek a high energy candidate who will share in accomplishing our mission. Necessary qualities include strong management, public relations, and fundraising skills, international experiences, and a passionate commitment to cross-cultural education and student development.

The Executive Director is the CEO of a self-supporting, non-profit educational corporation, closely affiliated with the University of California at Berkeley and with longstanding ties to other major International Houses around the world. The Executive Director provides leadership to 570 residents from 80 countries, 75 career staff, and thousands of alumni in the continued development of the International House. Reporting to an influential and supportive 37-member Board chaired by the University Chancellor, the Executive Director oversees $25 million in assets plus annual operating, capital and restricted budgets of over $10 million and a development program which raises $1.5 - $2 million per annum.

The Executive Director is expected with the Board to take a lead role in soliciting major gifts, while overseeing an exciting array of intercultural programs serving residents, the campus and local community. The Executive Director will also provide oversight for continuing renovations to International House's remarkable historic and architecturally distinct building.

The successful candidate should be available to start on or around June 1, 2007. He/she will possess an advanced degree or equivalent and must demonstrate sufficient experience in administration, development and public relations, preferably in a major non-profit organization of equivalent size. Strong communication and interpersonal skills, creativity in analysis, implementation and strategic planning are required for this demanding, but extremely rewarding position. Sensitive managerial leadership skills in a complex, dynamic multi-cultural atmosphere are essential. Bilingual and multilingual candidates with international work experience are preferred. Additional information about International House can be found at <http://ihouse.berkeley.edu>.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until position is filled. Submission of letter of interest and supporting documents prior to December 4, 2006 is encouraged. Please send (preferably electronically) a letter of interest highlighting your qualifications, a resume, and the names and contact information of five references to:
