B. AFSA recognizes its responsibility to ensure that its designees will not unduly absent themselves from their assigned work and that AFSA designees will make every effort to perform their representational functions on behalf of the bargaining unit in a proper and expeditious manner.

C. The following procedures shall be followed when requesting the use of official time for these purposes:

(1.) The AFSA designee must request official time from his/her immediate supervisor, or in the absence of the immediate supervisor, the next higher level of supervision, at the earliest reasonable opportunity. It is the AFSA designee’s responsibility to ensure that approval is obtained from the supervisor. The request shall be for a finite period, and be based on the AFSA designee’s good faith estimate of the time required to perform the particular function. For telephone calls, no prior approval is required. Official time should normally be requested in writing.

(2.) In the event the AFSA designee requires additional time due to unforeseen circumstances, after approval has been given, the designee shall request an extension of that time, by telephone or other appropriate means. The request shall be made to the approving official, or in that person’s absence, to the next higher level of supervision. The time extension shall be granted unless the AFSA designee’s absence will significantly interfere with the completion of the Employer’s critical day-to-day operations or the performance of its overall mission.

(3.) The Parties understand that unforeseen needs may develop precluding advance approval. For those instances when advance approval was not obtained, the AFSA designee will notify his/her immediate supervisor as soon as possible, of the time that was used and circumstances that precluded the designee and bargaining unit members from making proper advanced request. Additionally, AFSA designees will make a reasonable effort to ensure that bargaining unit members use proper procedures for obtaining approval of official time to engage in representational activities.

(4.) The AFSA designee will inform his/her immediate supervisor when the designee leaves the work site on representational activities. After completing the representational activity, the AFSA designee will inform his/her immediate supervisor of his/her return. It is the AFSA designee’s responsibility to document his/her official time used on his/her biweekly timesheet.

D. In the event that an AFSA designee’s request for official time is disapproved, in whole or in part, the Employer's decision-making official will notify the AFSA designee as soon as possible, in writing, so that the Union may select an alternative designee. The Employer will state the reason for the denial.

E. In the event that an AFSA designee’s request for official time is approved but the Employer delays the scheduling of the representational activity, any filing window under the control of the Employer will be extended for a time equal to the delay.

F. In the event of disapproval or delay, the Employer shall either reschedule the representational activity or modify the representational deadline.

G. Employees are entitled to a reasonable amount of official time to consult with Union designees on conditions of employment and to prepare for and attend meetings with the Employer regarding conditions of employment. Employees normally should request in writing supervisory approval to use official time in advance.

H. In the event that an employee’s request for official time is denied or delayed, the Employer may either agree to an alternate time to reschedule the representational events and/or modify the representational deadlines to enable the employee to adequately prepare and respond to the event or action that gave rise to the request for official time.

I. AFSA elected representatives and bargaining unit members using official time are to record their use on their biweekly time sheets using the following codes:
